Subject: The Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010

Dear Valued Versa Customer,

The Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010 and the United States Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) now require U.S. public companies to report on the origin of tin, tantalum, tungsten and gold used in manufactured products. These minerals are called "conflict minerals" because they are commonly found in regions where forced labor and other human rights abuses are used to mine these minerals and finance armed conflicts, specifically in the Democratic Republic of the Congo and its adjoining countries. The goal of the rule is to motivate manufacturers to ensure that these minerals come from conflict free sources and to prevent armed groups from benefiting from the use of force and human rights abuses.*

Versa Products Company has developed a program to determine whether any of the alloys used in the production of its products are conflict minerals under Section 1502 of the Dodd-Frank Act. Our program is twofold. First we have notified all current suppliers that Versa Products Company and its subsidiary will not accept any product and or service which utilizes or contains materials in violation of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act. Also as part of Versa's program, all future or prospective suppliers are also notified. Second, Versa continues to survey our current suppliers as a reminder that Versa will not accept any product and or service which is listed on or in violation of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection act.

Therefore, Versa Products Company, Inc., Paramus, NJ, USA and its wholly owned subsidiary, Versa BV, Apeldoorn, The Netherlands at present are in compliance with the requirements of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010 and does not have any reason to believe that our product and or manufacturing facility uses any "conflict minerals."

We welcome the opportunity to answer any questions you may have about this program. Feel free to contact us by email at Sales@Versa-Valves.com or by calling +1 201 843-2400.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Conflict Minerals Compliance Team
